

Annex No. 7
Principles of safe child-child relationships

1. The principles of safe child-child relationships concern safe relationships between children who are recipients of the Company's activities, especially when they last for a long time, when children function in the community, and when relationships are formed between them.
2. Whenever the following provisions refer to the subject of sports, classes, training, etc., it is assumed that they apply to classes and events, in particular sports, organised and/or conducted by the Staff of Chochołowskie Thermal Baths.

Examples of rules for safe child-child relationships

ALWAYS

1. I will apply the principles of fair play, conducting honest and clean competition with respect for my opponent - both for his or her successes and failures. I will celebrate my and the team's successes and accept failures with dignity, an inherent element of sport.
2. I will apply the "one for all, all for one" principle. I will participate in training with commitment, respecting the desire to achieve the sports goals of my friends with whom I train. I will strive to build team spirit by supporting each other, listening, not lying, and being understanding to each other.
3. I will respect the privacy of other players. I won't take their things without their consent.
4. I will respect other children and help them participate fully in training, acting as a role model. I will set an example that includes, for example, not drinking alcohol, not using drugs or other substances, or not using offensive or other discriminatory language.
5. I will respect the rights, dignity and worth of all children regardless of their age, race, colour, ethnicity, gender, disability, language, religion, political or other opinions, property status, sexual orientation, or level of ability.
6. I will respect my coach, teammates, opposing team and referees.
7. I will report harassment if I see it happening to me or someone else. I will tell caregivers if I have any health problems, worries, concerns or concerns about my or another child's safety.
8. I know I have the right to influence training goals and consult them with coaches and parents. I ultimately decide whether I want to pursue competitive sports or whether it is a way of developing and spending my time.
9. I know that my parent and I should consent to all activities in which only one adult participates (individual training, contact on social media). I can agree to them and opt out of them.
10. By participating in sports activities, I understand that I have the right to:
 - a) have fun and develop your skills;
 - b) feel safe and happy;
 - c) be protected from bad behaviour, from adults or other children, that makes me feel uncomfortable or sad;
 - d) talk and be heard, especially if I have concerns or feel unsafe;
 - e) know where to go for help or who to talk to if I am scared or worried about something;
 - f) be looked after if an accident or injury occurs.

NEVER

1. I will not use violence, and I will react when I see someone using it, regardless of whether it is a child or an adult. I have the right to pay attention to someone and ensure all club members feel good about themselves. I will not turn others against me.
2. I will not use the so-called trash talking - a psychological game where the opponent may be great in his or her discipline, but what we do and say makes him or her lose his or her balance and rhythm.
3. I will not use words or make sexually provocative gestures.
4. I will not violate the rules of the game through aggressive or dangerous behaviour, e.g. I will not hit or in any other way physically attack people participating in classes, I will not start fights or act in any way that could embarrass, humiliate, intimidate or belittle or humiliate other children.
5. I will not abuse or intentionally harm others by, for example:
 - a) using mean words to hurt others or spread rumours about them;
 - b) swearing and saying hurtful words about someone or to someone;
 - c) deliberately excluding someone, including encouraging others to exclude;
 - d) using social media inappropriately, e.g. posting malicious, harmful comments or photos to hurt or upset someone;
 - e) fighting physically and hurting others.
6. I know I will be sharing a room with other children during overnight camps or trips, which will be agreed upon in advance. I won't sleep in any other room.
7. I will not send invitations or establish contact on the Internet with my coach or other adult members of the section/club, even if they take the initiative. The exception is when the trainer contacts me together with another adult, or there are other children among the recipients. He or she can only talk to me about organisational issues related to classes, training or competitions. The exception is when my safety is at stake.
8. I don't have to talk to the coach about my private matters. My conversations may be limited to issues related to my sport.
9. I will not use telephones in the locker room or bathrooms and will not distribute the images of my colleagues without their consent, especially if it means harming them.
